Amtrak Scores Contract ‘Hat Trick’

Spring has come early for Amtrak with news that the firm has clinched a hat-trick of major new contracts.

As management and staff at Amtrak Express Parcels were this week celebrating news that one of the best known names in Britain, Virgin Wines Online – part of the Virgin Group of companies - had chosen Amtrak to provide nationwide parcel delivery services, news of two more big new contract wins was announced.

Almost before the ink had dried on the Virgin Wines Online contract Amtrak clinched two more major contracts, first with High Street retailer, Laura Ashley, and then with leading household product supplier, Kleeneze.

The triple success has delighted Amtrak where Director of Field Sales, Jerry Kane, said: “Winning a contract with a famous name like Virgin Wines Online is great news for us but to win two other big name customers simultaneously is fantastic. It’s the kind of hat-trick any business dreams about.*”

“Express parcel delivery is one of the most fiercely competitive businesses in the UK and to have pulled off a triple like this is a real feather in Amtrak’s cap.”
